Confederation. We briefly alluded on Thursday to the banquet given by the North American Association, in London, to the Delegates from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Forming, as we inevitably must, the western link of the great Federal Bond that is destined to fuse and strengthen British interests in North America, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, it is peculiarly interesting to watch the progress that time is working towards the consummation of the grandest conception of modern statesmen. A synopsis of Lord Carnarvon's speech, on the occasion appeared in our columns yesterday, and although the noble Earl, in the present stage of the question, was necessarily guarded in his remarks, and unable to disclose anything that might be accepted as a reflex of the future intentions of Her Majesty's Government; nevertheless, sufficient was said to indicate that the heart of the Secretary of State is with the cause, and that the fullest and most earnest attention of the Ministry will be devoted to the solution of the numerous questions that have to be determined, and to reconciling conflicting opinions and interests. On the part of Her Majesty's Government Lord Carnarvon was froe to promise, that when the matter came under their official consideration there would be no luke-warmness evinced in the consideration of anything that the Provincial and Canadian delegates might urgo, no indifference to their wishes, and no want of confidence in their national aspirations. In the course of his remarks, the noble Earm most graphically portrayed the enterprise and courage of the Colonists, the rough conflict waged with the wilderness, and the advanced state of civilization, grace and refinements of life now brought home in innumerable ways to the hearts and homes of hundreds of thousands in British North America. The gentlemen from the Maritime Powers, whom he felt segratified to meet, had come to discuss, added his Lordship, one of the most important, probably, that had ever been considered in British North America, and although it was not altogether a new one, having for many years been discussed in one shape or another, from various [Cheers.] For a fornight, the censy hung in the series of Canadia; they show they have in Missisguoi, not one Irish Canadian was for many years been discussed in one shape or another, from various [Cheers.] For a fornight, the censy hung in the many them have no grievances except such as their brother Irishmen have important from the development of the most important, probably, that had ever been considered in British North America, and although it was not altogether a new one, having for many years been discussed in one shape or another, from various [Cheers.] The following is the concluding portion of a country where Irishmen have important from the development of the Secretary of State is with the cause, and that the fullest and most ing for many years been discussed in (Cheers.) one shape or another, from various The following is the concluding portion of causes it came to no practical issue, Mr McGee's address:—

realisation of the great scheme for the consolidation of the North American provinces—a scheme which, while it binds the colonies closer to each other, is calculated to strengthen the bonds which unite them to the mothercountry."

The Hon. Dr Tupper, Premier of Nova Scotia, the Hon. S. L. Tilley, of New Brunswick, Governor Hincks and others, followed the noble Lord in reply to toasts proposed, and made able and interesting speeches.

THE EVENING STAR AND HER FREIGHT OF The Evening Star and her ferenit of Frail Women.—A New York letter, dated October 24th, to the Cinoinnati Commercial says: "Among the frail ones on board, over a hundred in number, there were many who were respectably connected. A city banker, on learning that his wayward daughter was among the lost, clapped his hands in sorrowful gratitude, and exclaimed: 'Thank God my daughter the pridet way have sorrowful gratitude, and exclaimed: 'Thank God, my daughter, the pride of my heart, is beyond the world's shame.' Also included in that flock of abandoned women, were two highly accomplished young ladies: one the daughter of a minister of the gospol in Western Pennsylvania, and the other a daughter of a clergyman in this city. The The families of several of our New York merchants were also represented among these beautiful female ruins. Indeed, I am told that there was hardly one of these fallen women who could not point to highly reswomen who could not point to highly respectable connections in this and other cities. Charity must now be thrown over them; but Charity must now be thrown over them; but how sad the thought that a single burial case should have taken down into 'that deep which nothing disembogues,' so much of sin and wickedness as the Evening Star contained. Faw single interments ever have included a hundred harlots, an operatic troupe, and a circus troupe. It is only fair to state that this line of steamers has enjoyed the dubious reputation of being the only one which would engage its bertits for the transportation of such rough characters as transportation of such rough characters as somposed this unfortunate cargo of iniquity."

"The Future of British America."

The Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. T. D. McGee, recently delivered an address upon the above subject to a London (C.W.,) audience. The night was very inclement, nowithstanding which the hall was crowded to listen to the elequent lecturer. The Free Press contains an excellent report of Mr McGee's remarks, from which we make a few extracts:

Press contains an excellent report of Mr McGee's remarks, from which we make a few extracts:—

I enter on this subject, Mr Mayor, of the Future of British America, at this moment, with a great degree of confidence and satisfaction. I consider and I think all must consider who look at the facts fairly, that the projected Union of British America—to which, I see, more than 'one of the mottos upon the walls of this fine chamber bear testimony—has gone through its first stage successfully. The second stage is approaching—Imperial Legislation; the third is not far off, the putting into operation of the new system. I do not say that all is plain sailing even now; but when I look back two short years, and remember that it was only in September, 1864, the first actual overture towards union was made at the Conference of Charlottetown; when I remember that we have had since then the Quebec Conference, the Conference of our Ministers with the Imperial Cabinet at London, in June, 1865, the Confederate Council of Trade, the repeal of the Reciprocity Treaty, the West Indian Commercial Commission, and two armed demonstrations (in a great degree stimulated by hatred to our Confederation policy) against these Provinces; when I remember that contrary to all the predictions of the croakers, Upper and Lower Canada found no insuperable difficulties in arranging in joint council their new local constitutions; when I remember that all these are the events of two short years, I cannot but feel,—I trust it is not presumptuous to say so,—that the hand of God alone could have so bitted and bridled the passions and stilled the antipathies of rival party leaders, as to render these things possible to us within so short a space of time—(cheers) * * * * * * When I spoke here, five years ago, of "Canada's interest in the American Civil War," I certainly did not foresee that we should have a reversion of that interest in the shape of Feriainism, which would compel us to call out 35,000 of our population to guard our frontier, and oblige us to use it. Conscio s of that good fortune, an-imated by the spirit it should bring with it, let us cease to be Newfoundlanders, Now Scottans, New Brunswickers and Canadians; let us cherish a love of the commonwealth, and prepare to extend to every fellow-subect, of whatever section or sect, or speech or creed, the dear name, without reservation or qualification, the talismanic title, the be-loved distinction of — Fellow-countryman as well as fellow-subject!

Fatal Collision in the Red Sea.

One of the Bhima's passengers sends to the Times an account of the foundering of that spip in the Red Sea:—"The Bhima was sunk at eleven o'clock on the night of the sunk at eleven o'clock on the night of the 11th of September, when on her way from Bombay to Suez, by collision with the steamer Nada, proceeding from Suez to Bombay. She sank in less than three minutes after she struck. Out of the 101 persons on board only 22 have been saved. Of these eight are Europeans, and the remainder natives. The Europeans are Shipmasters Mann and Cheverton and Mr Nazareth, who were passengers; the third officer of the Bhima, Mr C. J. Cuthbert, the steward, and three of the quarter-masters, two of whom are Portugese, and the third an Emglishman named Sandy. It appears that the collision took place at a distance of about 180 miles three of the quarter-masters, two of whom are Portugese, and the third an Emglishman named Sandy. It appears that the collision took place at a distance of about 180 miles from Sucz, which port it was expected would be acceptable the Collowing March 2014 of the control of the from Suez, which port it was expected would be reached on the following day, and in anticipation of this the baggage had been collected and arrangements made for landing. Although there was a fresh broeze blowing, the night was floe and starlight. Both vessels were pursuing their ordinary courses, at full speed, having their signallights up which were distinctly made out an hour before they came near to each other: lights up which were distinctly made out an hour before they came near to each other; and, further, the captains were on the lookent on their respective bridges. Yet, from some unaccountable cause, the two steamers came into collision with such fatal consequences. It is, however, alleged, on the part of the Nada, that she kept a port helm, and that the Bhima must have suddenly turned her side towards the Nada's bow. The Bhima was stuck on her starboard a few feet astern the mainmast. The shock was nearly all had done so about an hour before —were instantly aroused, and, springing to their feet, rushed forward to see what had happened. How great their dismay to find the vessel already sinking! The damage she had sustained, from the Nada's bow crushing the starboard and penetrating nearly to the mainmast, was of such a nature as to cause her to founder immediately. There was no time either to lower any of the boats, which, instead of being ottboard, were inboard and on the stocks, or even to cut away the life-buoys, which was lashed to the sides of the steamer. The scene was one of a most appalling character. For a few seconds there was a frantic rushing from one part of the vessel to another, but it was too evident there was no hope of escape. Shricks and the vessel to another, but it was too evident there was no hope of escape. Shrieks and pitiful cries for help filled the air. But none were more touching them those of Mrs Millar, who had been sleeping on the poop, while her child was in the cabin below. She instantly ran down to rescue her little one, but before she could return the water had risen several feet on the deck, and from some infortunate, sirgumstance, the saloon had risen several feet on the deck, and from some unfortunate circumstance the saloon door had been closed. Her cries from within were heard by Capt. Mana, who hastened to burst it open. But, finding this impossible, he ran to the poop and tried to force open the skylight. While he was thus endeavouring to release Mrs Millar and her child he himself was washed overboard. As the Bhima was sinking a terrible explosion took place, which is supposed to have been occasioned by the water running into the fires and coming in contact with the boilors. The captain of the Bhima and those with him on the bridge, excepting Mr Cuthbert, must have been either killed in the explosion or so severly injured as to be unable to save or so severly injured as to be unable to save themselves. The stern of the vessel was the first to go under water; the forecastle, there-fore, remained longest in sight; and among those who had taken refuge on the forecastle were Messrs Keene and Falke, who joined hands in the hope of assisting each other. Near them were the steward and Mr Naz-Near them were the steward and Mr Naz-arcth. They tried to cut off a life buoy, but so quickly did the water come rolling over them that there was not sufficient time even to do this. They, along with all on board, were carried down many feet below board, were carried down many feet below the surface of the water by the suction caused by the sinking of so vast a fabric. When Captain Hansconne,in command of the Nada, saw the terrible nature of the collision, he at once sent out three boats in order to save as many lives as possible. The first who was picked up was was Captain Cheretton, who was swimming towards the Nada, and he in turn exerted himself along with those in the boat with him to render every assistance; eighteen out of the twenty-two who were saved were picked up by this boat. Among them were Captain Mann, the steward Among them were Captain Mann, the steward and Mr Nazareth, who although in a very and Mr Nazareth, who although in a very exhausted state, had continued to hold on to floating pieces of wood. Four others kept themselves above water by clinging to a bale of cotten, and they were rescued. One was saved by a feather pillow, and one by a life buoy that he had succeeded in obtaining. The Nada's boats continued the search for five hours, but out of 101 persons on board 79 were missing, and of them no trace could be discovered.

The loss of the steamship Queen Victoria, belonging to our Canadian fleet, of which news reached us by telegraph yesterday, is a disaster which will be deeply regretted throughout Canada. She was the pioneer in a good work—the opening up of the Wost India trade. All must regret that this first venture should have ended so disastrously.—Montreal Gazette.

causes it came to no practical issue, but it had now been revived in a most practical form, and he regretted the unavoidable absence that evening of the delegates from Canada, without whom, it was impossible to deal with the question. Throughout the noble Earl's speech, a decided leaning in favor of the speedy accomplishment of confederation peeps out, despite that that "his lips were scaled," and potent as may be the silly opposition raised by Messrs Howe and Annand, the delegates clearly have the ears of the present Government, and by unity and persoverace may soon attain the object in view. Indeed, the London Standard, a well informed Conservative journal, goes so far as to say:

"That the Imperial Government is persevering energetically in the good work, and that there is no impediment, at least, in England, to the immediate present of the present of the North America. iterally cutting her into fragments. The body was severed entirely in two across the chest, both arms were cut off, and other por-tions of her body were horribly mashed. One of the arms fell to the story below, while the lifeless trunks rolled over on the floor, and lifetess tranks rolled over on the mor, and streams of blood spirted from them for several feet around. Mr Taylor, an employee, standing near by, made every effort to extricate her, but finding himself entangled was compelled to let go and tear himself loose. The remains were placed together, put in a coffin and curried to her husband's residence a short distance off. The scene which ensued where Mr. Harlow reached the part was traited. when Mr Harlow reached the spot was truly heartrending.

Sad Case or Suicide.—A merchant at New York, named Moses Williams, has lately committed suicide for a singular rea this was reduced to a sum, which, with expenses, amounted to £127,000; but another charge was made on his importations of sherry. The house was very wealthy, and would have contested the award, but for its desire to spare its senior partner from the nervous irritation to which he was subjected nervous irritation to winch ne was subjected by the contestation. However, that end was not gained, for the affair preyed so much upon Mr Williams' mind, that he at last committed suicide by shooting himself.—

St. Andrew's Dinner. The anniversary dinner of this Society took place last evening in the Colonial Hotel. After the installation of the officers elect for the ensuing year, about forty persons sat down to an excellent repast furnished in Mons. Driard's best style. The chair was occupied by the President, Mr J. G. Shepherd, and the vice-chair by Mr D. B. Blair. Among the invited guests were His Worship Mayor Macdonald, His Lordship Chief Jus tice Needbam, and ex-Chief Justice Cameron The sons of Scotia were in their happiest vein, and spent a most agreeable evening together; after disposing of the toasts the remainder of the time was passed in mirth, song and sociability. The music turnished by Messrs. Palmer, Wilson and Sandrie was excellent. A report will appear in our next. The following were the toasts proposed :-The Queen," proposed by the President 'The Prince, Princess of Wales and other Members of the Royal Family," proposed by he President. DINNER TO A COLONIAL MINISTER.—The Hon. John O'Shannassy, formerly Prime Minister of Victoria, Australia, was entertained at a banquet on the 8th Oct., in the town of Tipperary, Ireland. Mr O'Shannassy left Tipperary when a very young man, and, having risen to wealth and eminence in his adopted country, has now revisited his native land after an absence of nearly thirty years. Mr O'Shannassy stated that he recognised a great change and marked improvement in Ireland since the time when he quitted it to seek his fortune at the antipodes-an improvement indicated by the progress made in agriculture, the increase in the rate of wages, the opening of railways, and the decrease of crime.

LATER FROM THE CARIBOO COUNTRY .- Mr Cater from the Cariboo Country.—Mr George Collins left Quesoelmouth on Wednesday last, in a boat, and was only six days in reaching New Westminster. The excitement at Quesnelmouth concerning the quartz discoveries on Hixon Creek, is increasing; about fifty men will winter on the creek. Another vein, apparently rich, has been discovered and named the Poorman. A miner named Mason, has been fined $5 for acousing Judge Spalding, in open Court, of keeping out of the way to avoid recording keeping out of the way to avoid recording claims for the miners.

THE EUREKA .- Mra Ann Porteous charged a man named Taylor, yesterday, in the her with an umbrella at the above place Taylor admitted the offence, but pleaded provocation. The magistrate fined him $20 or two months' imprisonment. A second row occurred last night, we understand, at the same music hall, in which Taylor was concerned, and some parties received rough usage.

THE ACTIVE, owing to a high wind which prevailed, did not sail yesterday as advertised. but, wind and weather permitting, will be off at 10 of the clock this morning. She will carry a full complement of passengers Among old friends who are going east on a visit is Mr Warren Lambert, of the Cariboo Sentinel. Mr Chancellier, of the Hixon Quartz Mill Company, will go down for the purpose of purchasing a mill.

New Cable. - A new cable will be laid between Lopez and San Juan Islands, and the present cable will be raised and repaired. The distance is only three-fourths of a mile. The submerged cable was raised by the hands on the Mumford, and found in some places to be covered with marine grass three inches thick. In other places the line was as free from grass as when first laid.

THEATRE--The Marsh family, assisted by amateurs, by request, gave an entertainment last night in the theatre, consisting of the two-act piece entitled "Andy Blake," the immortal " Toodles," and an Ethiopian sketch called "Jumbo Jum," Considering that only a few hours were allowed for preparation, the pieces were very creditably performed, and afforded considerable amusement. NEW DRUG STORE - We are rather gratified in recommending to the public so competent a Chemist and Druggist as Mr Fred, Beal, whose ability in his profession has been well tested both in this Colony and abroad-be

The United States claim it, and the British claim it. Both nations are in military occupation, and will continue so until the question of right and title is settled. The levying duties on the produce of the Island tacitly declares it a foreign port; the question, then, of nationality arises: "Does it belong to the Republic of America, or is it a part of the Empire of Great Britain?" ### Medical.

A compound remedy, in which we have labored to produce the most effectual alterative that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effective antidote for the diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. It is believed that such a remedy is wanted by those who suffer from Strumons complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our afflicted felloweitizens. How completely this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to, be found of the following complaints:

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul cruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitinted blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, cruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the views; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulum of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Sooner or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown.

Sarspaprilla has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.

Dering late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else.
